Introduction to the AL Role

<https://www.youtube.com/embed/scbTj8oR7is>

ANGLO Leaders (ALs) are in regular direct contact with students. ALs regularly:

- Plan and lead excursions
- Plan and lead activities such as sports and discos
- Lead workshops
- Do meal supervision duties

At the beginning and end of student programmes, ALs also:

- Assist with arrival & departure of student groups
- Make students feel welcome
- Give safety information to students and group leaders

Being an ANGLO Leader is a residential job meaning that ALs live, eat, sleep and work in close proximity to each other, to students and to group leaders. The AL role can often involve working long days, being on the move a lot, and carries the weight of being responsible for the wellbeing of groups of teenage students. On the other hand, it is a fantastic way to meet lots of other like-minded, outgoing, enthusiastic young people, and the role provides the opportunity to tour some of the UK's most visited locations - for free.

Student Programme Overview

ANGLO student programmes last 13 or 14-nights for the majority of student groups. Most ANGLO Leaders work for two back-to-back student programmes, therefore it can be said that the second programme is a 'repeat' of the first one.

Here is the outline of a typical student programme from the perspective of an ANGLO Leader:

Note that ALs do not work in all the periods shown - the table shows all the sessions that occur during a student programme

Arrivals Day

Note that an Arrivals Day may actually start with the departures from the previous programme so we cover that here

Morning

Departures

Departures usually take place in the morning. ALs may be tasked with meeting groups at their accommodation to:

- Collect students' room keys
- Aid with moving suitcases out of the accommodation block
- Accompany groups to the coach
- Wave a tearful goodbye

Arrival Preparation

In advance of groups arriving, ALs may need to prepare Welcome Packs and look at the Arrival plan to see when each group is arriving, what meal they will eat when they arrive, and when/where their campus tour and welcome presentation will take place

Afternoon & Evening

ALs assist with all the aspects they have prepared for: welcoming coaches, checking in groups, giving safety information, leading campus tours and attending welcome presentations.

Managers will be on hand to give up-to-date arrival information for each group as there can be flight delays, baggage issues, or heavy traffic - all of which can cause delays

Typical Weekday

Every day is split into three periods: morning, afternoon, and evening.

There are also three meals: breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Here is an overview of a typical weekday at an ANGLO centre:

Period	Duty
Breakfast	Breakfast duty supervising students' breakfast time
Morning	Workshop or sports activity
Lunch	Lunch duty supervising students' lunch time - distributing packed lunches if required
Afternoon	Excursion
Dinner	Dinner duty supervising students' dinner time - promoting evening activity
Evening	Activity on campus (sports, disco, treasure hunt, karaoke, dance event etc)

Note that table above gives an overview of all the events that take place on weekdays - it does not reflect that ALs may be on a session off, or a day off

Typical Weekend Day

Weekends at ANGLO centres are usually busier than weekdays as there are no lessons, and all the students go on excursions.

The day is again split into three periods: morning, afternoon, and evening.

There are also three meals: breakfast, packed lunch and dinner.

Here is an overview of a typical weekend day at an ANGLO centre:

Period	Duty
Breakfast	Breakfast duty supervising students' breakfast time - distribution of packed lunches
Morning	Assist students onto bus/train and accompany them on excursion, leading them according to the itinerary
Lunch	Packed lunch out and about
Afternoon	Resume the excursion itinerary, and accompany the students back to campus
Dinner	Dinner duty supervising students' dinner time - promoting evening activity
Evening	Activity on campus (sports, disco, treasure hunt, karaoke, dance event, etc.)

Note that table above gives an overview of all the events that take place - it does not reflect that ALs may be on a session off, or a day off

Shift Pattern Example

We have looked at typical weekdays, typical weekends, and an overview of an entire student programme, let's conclude with an example of a weekly rota for an ANGLO Leader.

Help & Support

Help and support is available for all ALs in the form of:

- Training
- Check-ins
- Appraisals
- Documentation

Training

ALs attend a residential Training Weekend before they arrive to their respective centres. The Training Weekend covers vital aspects of the ANGLO Leader role. Specific details are communicated during the recruitment process.

Check-ins

During the recruitment process, applicants can check in with Recruitment managers in the ANGLO Head Office team.

At centre, ALs have (and can request) check-ins with their line manager (usually the Activity Manager, see Staff Structure).

Appraisals

Each AL has a minimum of two appraisal meetings with their line manager. These meetings offer the chance to get and give feedback, get support in any areas of difficulty, and talk about any problems or challenges they are facing.

Documentation

ALs have access to Digital Resources that cover the recruitment process as well as practical information and resources to aid them to perform their role to the best of their ability.
